The New England Regional World History Association announces its Spring 2020 symposium to be held on Sunday, 5 April, at Salem State University, Salem, MA. The symposium's main theme and keynote address will center on holy war in world history, but NERWHA invites proposals for panels, single papers, round tables, workshops, and posters on any issue relevant to world history. A proposal should consist of a one-page abstract and a one-page CV. Please submit both pages in a single MS Word document before 15 March to the NERWHA Secretary at aandrea@uvm.edu. Acceptances will be issued on a rolling basis. All participants must register and pay the appropriate symposium fee. A registration form, directions to Salem State University, and other relevant information is available, also on a rolling basis, at nerwha.org.
